

Raised pieces

Raised pieces are called moriagekoma. The pieces are carved and grinded, then their inscription is raised by applying lacquer using a maki-e (lacquer decoration technique) brush. After drying, the pieces are carefully polished to create an even finish. These are luxury pieces as they require the highest technique to make.